Ultimate OneNote Planner: User Guide

What you get

225 linked pages: a General Index, a yearly goals page, 12 months (calendar, goals and reflection each), 53 weekly trackers, 111 reusable templates in 10 categories, and 8 note templates.

Format

These are HTML pages, not a native OneNote notebook. OneNote cannot be generated as a native file from this package. Import the pages into OneNote as described below.

Import into OneNote

- Open OneNote on desktop, choose the notebook or section where you want the planner.
- Use Insert > File Printout (or drag each folder's HTML file in), or open index.html in a browser and copy sections across.
- Start at General Index; every page links back to it.

Using the planner

- Yearly: fill in the vision and top five goals on Yearly Goals.
- Monthly: for each month, use the calendar page for dates, the goals page for steps, and the reflection page at month end.
- Weekly: one page per week. Write the week's priorities, daily tasks, habits and reflection.
- Templates: copy a template page when you need it. Notes: use the eight note pages for daily capture.

Limits

- Links are relative: keep the folder structure intact when you move the pages.
- Calendar grids show the 2026 dates; change the year by editing the page or using blank weekly pages.
- Checkboxes are typed characters (☐); tick them by typing an x or using OneNote's checkbox tool.
